

Naeem Bhojani

Dr. Bhojani is an associate professor and clinical researcher at the University of Montreal. He was recruited there in 2013 to build and develop comprehensive kidney stone and BPH programs.

Born and raised in Montreal, he obtained a BSc in microbiology and immunology and another in physiotherapy from McGill University in 2001 and then completed medical school and urology residency at the University of Montreal. In 2011, Dr. Bhojani spent two years with Dr. Lingeman at Indiana University completing his fellowship in BPH and stone disease

Dr. Bhojani has published extensively in stone disease and BPH and is an editorial board member of the Journal of Endourology, Urology Practice, and BPH section editor for the Canadian Urological Association Journal. In 2017, Dr. Bhojani was named the AUA's Young Urologist of the Year representing the NSUAU, and in 2019, Dr. Bhojani was awarded the prestigious clinical research scholar award from the FRQ-S.